A CTP sales representative will respond by forwarding a Warranty form to the customer who will be responsible to submit all information requested with any support documentation as stated in the form's instructions. 2) When the required information is received a Claim Number will be assigned and the Quality Control Dept. will review the Warranty request. 3) If it is determined by CTP Technical Support that more information is required or any other parts or damaged components are needed to properly evaluate the failure, the customer will be notified. Failure to cooperate or produce needed materials for further analysis of a claim may void the claim due to lack of information and/or required parts requested. CTP reserves the right to examine every part subject to the claim under this Warranty. CTP also reserves the right to ask a customer to return parts to an Authorized Distributor or CTP Location for Warranty evaluation. 4) If required, CTP will request the customer to send the parts back to our premises for inspection. The customer will be solely responsible for shipping charges and CTP will not accept any collect shipments. CTP will not accept any merchandise that is returned to CTP in used condition. Only parts under Warranty that are suspected to have failed are allowed to be returned in used condition with our prior authorization. All parts returned to CTP must have original labels and be properly packaged for shipping. CTP Warranty will be void if returned merchandise is damaged due to improper packaging or neglect. Coverage will also be void if any third party delivering such merchandise has damaged the product. 5) If CTP determines that the part is subject to the warranty, all settlements will be made by CTP or its Authorized Distributor. If a Warranty Claim is denied all products submitted for examination to CTP will be kept for 30 days after denial date and then discarded.
